Conwy county’s classic coastline is the place to be for epic seaside experiences.

Put your best foot forward with a walk on our stretch of the ground-breaking Wales Coast Path, the first of its kind in the world. Take a short stroll or hardcore hike – or bike it – to get acquainted with our wide, open, exhilarating shores.

All along our coast you’ll stumble across things to see and do. Kinmel Bay’s seemingly endless sands are a big draw for beach bums, while charming, timeless Rhos-on-Sea offers peaceful village vibes between the bustling resorts of Colwyn Bay and Llandudno.

At Colwyn Bay, the ambitious Porth Eirias development has given the coastline a new lease of life (and beach!). Featuring a delectable seafront bistro run by top chef Bryn Williams and a buzzing watersports activity centre, the revitalised promenade is a legend in the making.

Don't forget!
While you’re here you can find out about what’s on, where to visit and things to do at the Tourist Information Point at Rhos-on-Sea. And, if you haven’t already found somewhere to stay, check out the accommodation on our website.
RHOS-ON-SEA
Small is beautiful in this charming seaside town located between big brothers Llandudno and Colwyn Bay.

If only all seaside towns could be like this – neat, pristine and peaceful. The long seafront walkway from Colwyn Bay takes in Rhos-on-Sea’s breakwater, where a little harbour has an atmosphere reminiscent of a West Wales coastal village.

Rhos’s sparkling coastal waters are popular with watersports fans and anglers, while walkers and cyclists make for the car-free promenade path. It’s not just the traditional promenade and lung fulls of salty sea air that attract walkers. Start your exploration from the tiny, roughly vaulted St Trillo’s Chapel at Rhos Point. Standing on the site of an ancient healing well, it’s the smallest church in Britain, seating only six. St Trillo’s is one of 26 historic sites on the circular Rhos-on-Sea Heritage Trail, which also takes in the remains of Llys Eurygn, a 6th century hill fort, perched above the town with all-seeing views.

The ‘small is beautiful’ theme continues at the delightful Harlequin Puppet Theatre, perhaps Rhos’s greatest claim to fame. Another ‘mini’ attraction is Rhos Fynach Mini Golf. It’s crazy golf with a fun nautical theme, with holes that include ‘The Surfboard’, ‘Pirate’s Skull’ and ‘Submarine’. Take a walk along the main street and look at the shops. They’re all small and mostly independent. There’s a farm shop stuffed with fresh produce, shops selling antiques, home accessories and jewellery... there’s even a shop selling period costumes. And there’s a great range of cafés and restaurants too.
COLWYN BAY
The sweep of coast from Rhos-on-Sea to Colwyn Bay and beyond has seen a major transformation with new projects and attractions breathing new life into the resort.

The Porth Eirias waterside development is fast becoming a major attraction along the North Wales coast. There’s a bistro run by celebrity chef Bryn Williams and a range of watersport tuition provided by Colwyn Bay Watersports.

But we’re not just making waves. Our green spaces are keeping up too. Colwyn Bay’s green fingers just keep on growing. The town has won yet another Wales in Bloom prize for its fabulous floral displays – for the 15th year running.

The park is also home to Stadiwm Zip World, a first-class sporting venue that hosts prestigious rugby union matches and popular outdoor concerts.

Colwyn Bay’s prime attraction, perched panoramically on the hillside, is the Welsh Mountain Zoo – National Zoo of Wales. It’s a caring conservation zoo, with many rare and endangered species from around the world including snow leopards, red pandas, Sumatran tigers, chimpanzees and Californian sea lions.

Colwyn Bay is also the perfect place for a day’s retail therapy. Pick up a gift for someone or treat yourself! Many of our excellent independent stores are family run. If you’re looking for your high street favourites, we have those, too. Plus, one of the region’s largest shopping malls, complete with handy free parking. The weekly farmers’ market selling everything from organic pork to preserves is on every Thursday at the Bay View Shopping Centre. Bag yourself a bargain at the street market every Tuesday and Saturday.

Eirias Park is a lovely 50-acre green oasis with a boating lake, bowling green, playground and Colwyn Leisure Centre complete with swimming pool, squash courts and leisure suite.

ABERGELE & PENSARN
Pensarn’s popular north facing promenade has classic seaside amusements and a lovely shingle beach. Historic sites at the ancient market town of Abergele include the 15th century parish church of Saint Michael, and the town is a great base for walking the surrounding countryside or playing a few rounds at the excellent 18-hole golf course.

TOWYN & KINMEL BAY
This busy part of the coast features mile upon mile of big sandy beach and offers classic seaside family fun. Kinmel Bay is popular for canoeing and kitesurfing. The pretty harbour is a favourite among yachtsmen and fisherman alike. And next door, Towyn’s collection of beach front amusements and entertainments are a big hit with visitors. The area is well known and loved by thousands as a camping and caravanning centre. Head to Tir Prince and Knightly’s Fun Park for something to keep the whole family happy.
THE RHOS-ON-SEA HERITAGE TRAIL
The trail takes you past the town’s historic locations including Bryn Euryn ancient hill fort, the sixteenth century ruins of Llys Euryn, built on the site of a thirteenth century palace, and the tiny chapel of 6th century Saint Trillo on the shore. Pick up a copy of the trail leaflet from the Tourist Information Point.

COLWYN BAY HERITAGE WALK

WALKING CONWY COUNTRYSIDE SERVICE
01492 575200, conwy.gov.uk/countryside
Popular local trails include Pwllcrochan Woods, the Fairy Glen at Old Colwyn and Bryn Euryn above Rhos-on-Sea. Leaflets available locally or see the website for more information.
Served well by a network of paths, Bryn Euryn is a prominent limestone hill overlooking Rhos-on-Sea. It is a rich mixture of grassland and woodland, part of it being a Site of Special Scientific Interest. It also has great historical interest with Llys Euryn - a house dating from the 15th century and a hilltop fort from the 6th century.

Follow the waymarked trails to discover beautiful butterflies, fabulous flowers and historical ruins.

Bryn Euryn is managed by Conwy Countryside Service as a Local Nature Reserve. For information and leaflets on a variety of walks in Conwy County: www.conwy.gov.uk/countryside

Please follow the Countryside Code and ensure that dogs are kept under close control.

The Summit Trail
This waymarked circular trail leads you past the ruined mansion of Llys Euryn, through woodland and grassland, to the ancient hillfort at the summit, with its panoramic views, and back to the starting point of the car park. The trail is about a mile in length and does have some steep climbs/descents which can be slippery after rain, so you will need stout footwear. Follow the green waymarkers from the car park entrance.

Woodland Trail
This waymarked circular trail initially follows the Summit Trail, then continues through woodland, with fewer climbs/descents, and back to the starting point of the car park. This trail is about 1.5 miles in length. Follow the red waymarkers from the car park entrance.

Although limited, access for mobility scooters is possible by following sections of the trail. Telephone 01492 575200.
History
The Summit Trail takes you by the fifteenth century mansion of Llys Euryn, once celebrated in bardic verse. It also leads you to a sixth century hillfort at the summit of Bryn Euryn, with its panoramic views. The summit was also used by the RAF during the war. The history of both sites is detailed on boards located on site.

Even 200 years ago Bryn Euryn was surrounded by countryside with small hamlets at Mochdre, Rhos, Llysfaen and Colwyn but it is now an island amongst housing. On the hill itself, it is interesting to note that the summit of the hill was clear of scrub in 1948 but is now covered in blackthorn.

Flowers
Bryn Euryn has a rich variety of wild flowers both in the grassland and woodland, which love the lime rich soil here. The grassland areas are valuable enough to have been designated a Site of Special Scientific Interest and the whole hill has been declared a Local Nature Reserve in recognition of its great wildlife and community value.

The woodland flowers are best seen in the spring and include wood anemone, dog’s mercury, wood sorrel and wood avens. In the damper parts of the wood the attractive hart’s tongue fern is abundant. The grassland areas bloom through the summer - except for the spring cowslips - and characteristic species include common rockrose, kidney vetch, lady’s bedstraw, carline thistle and wild thyme. Where the rock lies near the surface the nationally scarce hoary rockrose and Nottingham catchfly can be found. Several orchids are to be found including early purple orchid, pyramidal orchid, and green winged orchid.

BUTTERFLIES

The flowers support a great variety of insect life. Twenty six species of butterfly have been recorded on the hill. In the woods you will notice the speckled wood. On the rocky areas you will see the wall brown and grayling. Flying among the grasses you may see the meadow brown and small heath, while on the bramble and gorse the gatekeeper may be found. Near the summit in May and June you may find red admirals and painted ladies, which have migrated from Central Europe and North Africa. Other colourful finds include the peacock, small tortoiseshell, small copper and the common blue. A day flying moth you may see in the summer is the handsome six spot burnet moth. It has dark green wings spotted with red but it becomes a crimson blur when it flies. Its caterpillar feeds on the abundant bird’s foot trefoil and then its characteristic pale yellow cocoons can be found on the stems of plants.

Geology

Think of tropical seas and coral reefs! These were the conditions 350 million years ago when the limestone from which Bryn Euryn is composed was formed from the accumulated and compressed remains of sea creatures. Volcanic activity and earth movements then buckled the limestone and incorporated mineral veins into the rock. More recently, some 12,000 years ago in the last Ice Age, huge glaciers scoured out the softer rocks and left the valleys.
